I am applying for the position of Internal Financial Auditor because I strongly believe that:

- Individuals who voluntarily dedicate their time and effort to the activities and organisations they value should also contribute their professional expertise.
- Being a member of an association should not only involve receiving benefits; it should also mean contributing one's knowledge and experience to improve the the organisation and the benefit of all its members.
- I possess extensive expertise in economics, finance, and accounting, having worked throughout my professional career in these fields as an economist.
- I have a solid understanding of the financial management of associations, as I have served — and continue to serve — as treasurer of several organisations.
- I am familiar with the financial and organisational functioning of the IFCM, as I have been a member of its Board for three years.
- I have the professional experience and competence required to perform this role effectively, having carried out similar responsibilities for nine years within the IFCM and for six years at the European Choral Association – Europa Cantat.
